

DESIGNING OF MEN & WOMEN DAY SPA INTERIOR IN BANDUNG WITH PRIVACY APPROACH

Adinda Citra Nuraini

NIM: 1403134017

Abstract: The bustle of urban area with the majority of its people who work in an office that was spending more time outside the home coupled with the state increasingly crowded roads makes urban peoples in the blood more quickly feel stressed and tired with their daily activities. Therefore we need a place that can facilitate urban peoples to be relaxed their body and mind. Spa is a series of activities related to the body of caring for the body, relax the mind, treat the body, limber, and can eliminate toxins in the body. With spa urban communities can also feel the relaxation amid the density of their daily activities. At this time many places spa located in Bandung, but there are still plenty of places such spa that can not meet the needs and satisfaction of visitors or are not in accordance with existing standards. For example by not providing the main spa facilities such as water treatment methods as well as the convenience of visitors who are less satisfied with not giving her the privacy to visitors to insulate the room by using curtains, also does not separate between male and female areas. Despite the many spas that are specific to women or men, but still less optimized properly. For example on a special men spa in Indonesia are often viewed negatively by the public. Of them that can be considered as the cause of the problem client dissatisfaction. Thus the design of the spa is using privacy approach is expected to provide convenience for the visitors with the main purpose of dividing the whole space into two regions, namely the area of men and women. So the end result of this thesis is the form of interior design spa by using privacy approach that uses x masculine feminine theme

Keywords: spa, privacy, feminine, masculine