

ABSTRACT

Food delivery System is a food delivery System in the form of a courier service in a shop, restaurant, and food company. The service is provided so that consumers who have ordered food do not feel worried who will deliver the food they ordered. The catering marketplace application for this food delivery System is designed to make it easier for vendors and consumers to send and receive food. KETRINGAN's products and services have received positive responses from consumers and vendors, such as vendors who are affected both in running their businesses and consumers who are helped in finding food vendors.
