

ABSTRACT

The abuse and illicit circulation of drugs is no longer a new phenomenon, but rather a problem that can threaten various fields of life. One way that can be done is by providing a rehabilitation center for victims of drug addiction. In Makassar city itself there is one drug rehabilitation center managed by the government, namely the Narcotics Rehabilitation Center BNN Makassar Baddoka. However, in the rehabilitation process carried out there are several problems that must be faced, From the results of Nawangsi's research, SK (2016), said , while undergoing rehabilitation, individuals former drug users experience a change in their lives. The limited space to move makes the subject feel lost of freedom and isolated from life outside of rehabilitation. This situation becomes a source of stress (stressors) and becomes a part of life that cannot be separated from the situation and condition of the subject that requires staying in rehabilitation. and designing facilities that are able to understand needs both physically and psychologically
