

ABSTRACT

The ideology of feminism emerged as a concept of socio-political change based on a crisis analysis of male privilege and female subordination in a particular society as a defense of social equality for men and women. Many people think that feminism is an opposition to men and many reject it. However, in reality, feminazi has given rise to a new ideology that is very contrary to feminism, namely feminazi, where feminazis think that they are the most righteous among women and look down on men. Through the understanding of feminazi in this report, the author wants to create a mixed media painting that aims to represent the understanding of feminazi so that it can be easily understood by the wider community. This work looks at how the medium and materials to be used in the process of making the work depart from the idea of painting.
