

ABSTRACT

The Bandung Diocesan Office is an administrative and pastoral center located on Jalan Moh. Ramdan, Bandung City. With an area of 12,000 square meters and lodging facilities for clerical guests and out-of-town communities, the office not only performs administrative functions but also serves as a space for cross-community activities. However, a number of problems were identified, including some spaces have different intensity of use such as the Bishop's room and meeting rooms, no supporting spaces such as first aid and lactation rooms and the need to adjust the configuration and atmosphere of the space and activities for the children's faith atrium.

The redesign of this office aims to create a healthier, more efficient, and inclusive workspace and cross-community space with a design approach that integrates the spiritual value of the Diocese of Bandung, namely “Silih Asih” which is in line with the values and teachings of Catholicism. This concept is expected to present a space that is not only functional, but also reflects the spirit of love, service, and openness to all visitors. By paying attention to the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs of users. Both in terms of visitors and office employees.
