ABSTRACT

Airlines transportation is one of the transportation cost that is often used by people in Indonesia.The most important thing issues in this transport is associated schedule, airline prices and what that can be used also to predict what will happen later.Therefore, also needed a application information that can provide information about the accuracy of the schedule (departure), the price of each of the routes objectives, and the airline also are available to be used.

Android is a mobile operating system that is widely used,so that the application airlines can be applied in mobile based on Android.Aplication with the title "Application Information airlines in Indonesia Android-based system." This android application can be applied in smarth phone.The advantages of this aplication in terms of determining the appropriate schedule that can be input by the user,where is the input of the flight schedule obtained information such as hours of departure, the flight cost and what airline flight is ready to serve.

This application can be used by the user in a practical and user ease in getting a mobile flight information so that it can be implemented to meet the needs of the community. Flight information application has advantage value by providing the user with a rating of 90%. Ease of use by 84%. The functionality of the application features to function properly at 100%. Full-featured applications available complete with a rating of 100%.

Keywords: android, Indonesian airline, real time.