

ABSTRACT

Managing and processing data manually in Teaching-Learning Activity which occurred in SMP Negeri 4 Purworejo is very occupiedly and susceptible to be at fault. Recording and saving data manually will be difficult to access when they be needed. The meaning sense of data in teaching-learning activity are pervade student's grade, absent, violation, schedule, announcement and lesson references.

By applied Information Technology in Teaching-Learning Activity for students and teacher, it will be hope to help this school's side to gather, store, process, and to share the information to students and the teachers based on their proportions. Utilizing websites to manage data and information in teaching-learning activity have something as purpose to make the system is easier to be accessed from another place which connected by local area network in the school or by internet.

In this final project will be build the teaching-learning information system based on web that can handle some problem such as the students grade processing, violations, absent, schedule and providing facilitate to uploads and downloads lesson references, and to manage news and announcement for students and teachers.

Key words : Data, Informations, School, Website